Research and Scholarly Activity

Research and Supervision Interests

A leading expert in human rights, social justice, equity, diversity and inclusion my research program is comprised of several interrelated areas: Organizational Consultation, Social Justice Theory and Pedagogy, Feminist/Multicultural Counselling Psychology, and International Psychology. Within each of these areas, I examine issues related to oppression, and trauma with special attention given to diversity, such as immigration, nationality, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, language, and social class. As well, I have a particular interest in sexual violence, gender based violence, homophobic bullying, and workplace challenges (e.g., harassment, bullying, and violence).

Director of Social Justice and Diversity Lab

The Social Justice and Diversity Research Lab is a group of international scholars and graduate students conducting research examining several interrelated areas related to Equity, Diversity and Inclusion and Human Rights. We examine issues related to social justice, oppression, and trauma with special attention given to intersectionality such as immigration status, nationality, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, language, and social class. We use trauma informed methodologies in all of our work.

Teaching

My teaching philosophy is consistent with the areas in my program of research related to Human Rights, Social Justice Pedagogy, and Feminist/Multicultural Counselling Psychology. I am a core instructor in the organizational consultation, qualitative research methods and two courses related to gender, diversity and sexuality. This summer I developed a course on the development of human rights and psychology. I have worked diligently to develop these courses such that they are informed by research and I use my expertise in social justice pedagogy and feminist/multicultural psychology in course development and instruction. Consistent with social justice pedagogy, developed two innovative programs at McGill University. The Gender, Sexuality, Feminist and Social Justice Program and the Diploma program in Human Relations, Diversity and Sexuality. As well, I helped to develop, oversee, and teach in a counselling psychology Master's program at the Baha'i Institute for Higher Education. In this role, I have been involved in curriculum development, course development, teaching students, and mentoring new instructors. Finally, as a member of the Counselling Psychology program committee, I have been actively involved with program development, curriculum development, accreditation processes, and program review (e.g. APA, CPA, OCCQ, OPQ, CREPUQ). In addition, I am involved in developing equity, diversity, inclusion and sexuality education curriculum in primary and secondary schools in Quebec.

Research Advisor: Undergraduate Psychology Honours Thesis Students

Other Committees

In addition to being a masters and doctoral supervisor, I have supervised several Special Projects in the Family Life Education program, I have sat on thesis and examination committees in the Department of Educational and Counselling Psychology, Department of Integrated Studies in Education, Political Science, and the School of Social Work. I have served as a Pro-Dean on several occasions and have been an External Examiner for theses generated at a number of universities including University of British Columbia and the University of Toronto.

Service

My contributions to the scholarly community can be delineated at the university, national, and international levels. At the university level, I have sat and continue to sit on a range of committees (at all levels of the university), participated in governance (e.g., senator, program director), and have developed a mentoring program for immigrant students. At the national level, I have been active in the Canadian Psychological Association (CPA) and the International Council of Psychology (ICP). I have held several offices in both these associations including President of the CPA. Internationally, I have collaborated with governments, embassies, universities, and other educational institutions in the areas of human rights, and social justice as well as, equity, diversity and inclusion initiatives. Currently, I am member of the Advisory Council, of the Global Network of Psychologists for Human Rights and I represent the ICP at the Psychology Coalition at the United Nations.
